Martha Lee Woods and Larry Bates were chosen as Miss and Mr. Volunteer in the campus election Tuesday.

Fifteen Fall Quarter Grads Follow Various Vocations

Fifteen students completed the requirements for the bachelor of science or the bachelor of arts degree at The University of Tennessee Martin Branch during the fall quarter, H. C. Allison, registrar, has announced.

The degrees will be conferred at the annual UTMB Commencement Exercises to be held Friday, June 4, 1965.

While awaiting the awarding of their diplomas from the various curricula, the former students are now engaged in the following vocations:

Education — Betty Ann Aldred of Milan is teaching in East Prairie, Missouri; Amanda Lashlee Bukky of Camden is doing substitute teaching in commercial subjects in Kettering, Ohio; Ella Gardner Chipwood of Union City has applied for a teaching position in Gadsden, Alabama; Johnny Randall Coleman of Dyer is teaching health and physical education in the Obion Central High School at Troy.

Jack Lynn Hadley of Covington is teaching mathematics in the South Fulton High School; Betsy Herron of Dresden is working with the Department of Welfare in Trenton; Don Curry Speight of Madison is training for a job as salesman with a pharmaceutical company; Norma Killebrew Williams of Dresden is teaching the fourth grade in the Greenfield High School.

Business Administration — Lowell Crane Jr. of Jackson is waiting for further instructions before entering the Navy; Ralph D. Golden of McKenzie is a student in the College of Law at U-T Knoxville.

Agriculture — Frank G. Dodd of Huntingdon is in business with his father there.

UTMB holds graduation exercises only at the end of the fall quarter and at the end of the summer term.

Bates And Woods Head 'Volunteers'

Larry Bates and Martha Lee Woods were elected Mr. and Miss Volunteer from a list of 34 nominees in a campus-wide election Tuesday.

Larry is a junior in agriculture from Springfield. He is president of the All Students Association, a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity and a member of the Agriculture Club.

Martha Lee is a junior in secondary education from Henderson. She is a cheerleader, ROTC sponsor, a member of Chi Omega sorority and former engineering queen.

The man and woman receiving the highest number of votes in the campus leader election are given the title Mr. and Miss Volunteer.

Students Injured In Two-Car Crash

Five student teachers of The University of Tennessee Martin Branch were involved in a two-car collision Tuesday morning on the highway between Union City and Martin.

The driver of the car, Eddie Butler, received a knee injury, and all the ligaments in his leg were damaged. He was rushed to the Volunteer General Hospital.

Wally Hoffmann, also in the car, was treated at the Volunteer Hospital for a broken arm.

Charles "Butch" Williams received broken ligaments and bruises and was treated at the Volunteer Hospital.

Peggy Smith, another student teacher, had a broken foot and a chin cut and was transferred to the Volunteer Hospital.

Kay Roberts, a student teacher, received emergency treatment at the Obion County Hospital and was released.

David Lindsey, driver of one car, received a head injury.

State Trooper P.T. English said about 200 feet of the highway at the point of the collision is a solid sheet of ice. He said passengers in the Butler car told him the Lindsey car skidded on the ice and slid into the path of the westbound Chevrolet. Both cars, the officer said, were damaged beyond repair.

The five students were doing their quarter of student teaching at Union City.

Ten Receive Campus Leader Honors In Student Election

Ten students were elected to represent The University of Tennessee Martin Branch as campus leaders last Tuesday. These students, five women and five men, received the highest number of votes next to the total received by Mr. and Miss Volunteer. The women are Elaine McKee, Molly Jenkins, Shirley Raines, Linda Thorpe, and Marita Moseman.

Job Applications Being Accepted

Applications for student jobs on President Johnson's Work-Study Program are being accepted, Gene Stanford, business manager, said yesterday.

Mr. Stanford has been notified that $17,000 has been made available for 48 jobs on campus and six jobs with welfare agencies off campus.

The pay for these jobs is $1 per hour, 25 cents per hour more than was originally announced. Students may earn up to $15 per week while enrolled or $40 a week during the vacation periods.

Students may qualify on the basis of need as determined by family income. Those in need of financial assistance to continue in college may check with Mr. Stanford at the business manager's office to determine whether they are qualified to participate in the program.

A number of jobs requiring typing skill are available, as well as outdoor work on the campus and on the farm.

The first students to be accepted will be placed in jobs under this program later this month.

'Platters' Coming As Big Name Act

The Platters, a nationally known singing group, will appear in the Fieldhouse on The University of Tennessee Martin Branch campus April 23 at 8 p.m.

This group has been chosen by the All Students Association as the big-name entertainment for spring quarter, according to Larry Bates, ASA president.

The Platters, who are celebrating their 10th year on the top of recording charts in the United States, have just completed an appearance in Las Vegas, Nevada.

"Ambassadors of Good Will," as they were called by Mercury Recording Company, The Platters have appeared in Europe and in South America.

Many of their records have sold over a million copies. Included among these are: "The Great Pretender," "Twilight Time," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "My Prayer," and "Enchanted."

Their current album, "Golden Hits," has been recorded in 16 different languages.

400-Unit Dorm Being Considered

A new 400-unit dormitory to be started in the spring of 1966 is being considered, Vice President Paul Meek said yesterday.

This unit probably would be located directly east of the Home Economics Building and south of Highway 22. It was originally scheduled to be a 300-unit dormitory.

This will be an entirely new unit and will be in addition to the unit now under construction and two units of 528 capacity to be begun south of the Home Management House in the early summer.

This will bring the total capacity of men's and women's housing on the campus to 1875.

Same Old Story - Vote!

One-third -- just one-third, approximately 600 out of 1800, students took about three minutes out their day Tuesday to cast their votes for campus leaders.

Are you one of these or are you one of those that didn't take time and probably complained later about your friend not getting it? Did you just sit back on your dead "Tennessee Spirit" and say "My vote doesn't matter anyway"?

It's up to you and you alone to decide! Will you grow as UTMB grows or will you let the Tennessee Spirit die because of lack of interest?

One big way for you to grow is to realize that your opinion and your vote does matter. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. You could be that strong link in the chain and help yourself and UTMB grow in all ways if you would only rekindle that Tennessee Spirit and take interest.

Only through your show of interest can things improve. Next time, support the event! Vote!

Three And Four-Year-Olds Make Life Quite Interesting

BY JOYCE HEARN

Each morning at 9 o'clock a procession of 12 three and four year-olds arrive fresh and eager for another day at the U-T Martin Nursery School.

The next four hours are busy for themselves and prove interesting and eternally surprising for the student teachers.

First the children are checked by Mrs. Howard Smith, student health nurse for colds. Then, after coats, nats, sweaters, mittens and boots have been removed and properly put away, they are ready for creative play. Play time is an educational and creative experience for there are many activities provided. Clay modeling, pasting, fingerpainting (a legitimate excuse to be messy) and spatter painting are among their favorites. Such activities help children gain skills and present new situations to the student teachers.

Poetic justice as practiced by a four year-old is remembered by one college student. It seems that two girls were painting on either side of an easel when one continually insisted on helping the other paint her picture. Finally, as her unwanted helper appeared again, the child dipped her brush in real paint and flicked it smack in the other's eye.

"Juice time" at 9:30 a.m. is followed by more play and then music. In this period the children listen to music, marching around the room and playing rhythm instruments occasionally.

On warm days the children enjoy getting bundled up and playing outside where they are free to run, climb and make noise. On bad days, they have to stay inside and make noise.

Returning indoors, again removing wraps and going to story time is next on the agenda. Interest in the stories is quite evident for the children express their opinions freely. Once when the teacher was reading a story about Eskimos a child piped up and said, "They live at Knoxville. It's a long, long way."

Following story time, the children take a much needed (for the teachers) rest before lunch. Lunch, of course, is a popular activity for all concerned. New foods are periodically introduced so that the children may become accustomed to them. Like many college students they sometimes reject new dishes -- celery was neglected until an ingenious senior in home ec demonstrated how it "squeaked" when she bit it -- soon, the whole table was chomping merrily away on "squeaky" celery.

Lunch time is over quickly and everyone prepares to go home. Again, coats, etc., are put on 12 wriggling little bodies.

After gathering up any paintings or pastings they have made they are ready to go home for their naps.

As one senior put it, "Nursery school is really fun, but you have to be on your toes. What I enjoy most is seeing the growth of each child from the time he enters school until he leaves. You can see the progress, the way each child contributes to the group and the influence of the group on each child."

Dr. Woodbury Of Medical Units To Talk On Pharmacology Careers

Dr. James M. Moore, chairman of the Biological Sciences Section, announced yesterday that Dr. Robert H. Woodbury, professor and chairman of the Department of Pharmacology, University of Tennessee Medical Units, will deliver a talk Thursday night February 11 at 7 p.m. in Room 221 of the ABL Building.

He will speak on "Drugs Useful in Heart Diseases and Opportunities for a Career in Pharmacology." His talk also will be concerned both with the Summer Training Program and the Graduate Program in Pharmacology.

The Summer Training Program is designed to provide college students with an opportunity to attend an orientation course in pharmacology without credit and to participate in the research activities of one of the staff members of the Pharmacology Department. The aims of the program are to acquaint college students with the opportunities and responsibilities of individuals in pharmacology, and to assist students in reaching a decision as to whether or not they wish to select pharmacology for their life's career.

The summer program is available to college students who have finished one, two or three years of college studies with a superior record. It starts on the first Tuesday following July 4, and continues for a period of either four or six weeks, and provides a tax-free stipend of $150 to $200 per month. In special circumstances where the individual has family responsibilities, a slightly larger amount may be available. Awards are announced between January 1 and April 15, as long as places are available.

Early applications are recommended. Further information concerning the program and application blanks may be secured by writing to the Department of Pharmacology, University of Tennessee Medical Units, 62 South Dunlap, Memphis, Tennessee.

The Medical Units of The University of Tennessee through the Graduate School -- Medical Sciences, provides advanced or graduate training in pharmacology leading to the M. S. and Ph. D. degrees. Generally, four years attendance permits fulfillments of the requirements for the Ph. D. degree, though University requirements require at least three academic years of full-time study beyond the B.S. degree.

The training in pharmacology establishes a strong background in physiological and biochemical sciences and emphasizes the physiological aspects of pharmacology. Broad training is provided, though the student is permitted to obtain depth and special training in one or more of the following areas: autonomic pharmacology; cardiovascular pharmacology; neuro-pharmacology; clinical pharmacology; metabolism of erythropoietin; metabolism of steroids.

Financial support is available in the form of fellowships which supply a stipend to cover cost of living and tuition. The amount of the stipend varies with the particular fellowship and the family responsibilities of the individual. New students are accepted throughout the year, though the preferred dates are July 1, October 1, Jan. 1 and March 25.

The majority of the fellows are selected between the period of January 1 and April 15. Applications for admission and for fellowships should include a picture of the candidate, a complete transcript of college courses, the names of three former teachers who are familiar with the applicant and a letter (essay) from the student presenting his biographical sketch since completing high school and the reasons he has become interested in pharmacology. A satisfactory performance on the Graduate Record Examination is desirable and is required before the fellowship can be activated. Fellowships are awarded for one year, and are renewable up to a total period of four years, subject to satisfactory performance.

For additional details and application blank, those interested may write Robert A. Woodbury, Chairman, Pharmacology Department, University of Tennessee Medical Units, 874 Union Avenue, Memphis 3, Tennessee 38103.

Those wishing to talk with Dr. Woodbury prior to the 7p.m. meeting February 11 may see Dr. Moore in Room 232, ABL Building not later than Tuesday, February 9.

Snow Brings Out Changes In Landscape, Personality

By Andrea Jonas

As snow blankets the University of Tennessee Martin Branch campus, changes occur not only in the landscape, but also in the personalities of the inhabitants.

Boys suddenly possess schizophrenic personalities. One moment they have a hand at your elbow for added support on the slippery ice and the next minute, they hit you in the face with a snowball.

Girls, who usually have neat coiffures, are seen with wet, stringy hair as a result of snowballs. Many of the girls hibernate in the dorm, except for going to classes. These girls eat soup three times a day.

Joe Stroud Works As Missionary Trainee In Japan

Joe C. Stroud, an honor graduate at U-T Martin in June, 1964, is now in training in Tokyo, Japan, for missionary work in Hiroaki, Japan.

Joe, who is from Martin, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stroud, is enlisted in the Special Term Missionary Program of the Methodist Church. This is a special program that the Methodist Church created for missionaries who serve abroad for three years. Qualifications for this program require that a person be graduated from an accredited college with an above average record in scholarship and practical achievement. Joe's three-year term of work will begin in March when he begins teaching English in a Japanese school in Hiroaki.

Training for his career began this summer with a six week period of orientation part in Greencastle, Indiana, and part in Stony Point, New York. It included intensive study in cultural aspects of the area to which the workers are preparing to go, linguistics, and communication of the Christian faith.

Joe has been in language school in Tokyo since September. He also has classes on teaching English as a foreign language. His present home is the Interboard House, a boarding house which operates under the United Church of Japan and where missionaries of all denominations train. He and seven other special term missionaries live there.

In a news-letter to friends concerning his problems and achievements, Joe wrote: "Any real contribution in the Japanese Church is limited by our language ability, but one good (or bad) thing is that the Japanese people are sensitive to any sincere effort or interest."

Vols Drop 84-74 Game To CBC Last Night

U-T Martin's Vols dropped an 84-74 contest to Christian Brothers College in Memphis last night.

The Vols were crippled by the loss of Captain Ronnie Armstrong who was sidelined for this game by a foot injury.

Vols Bow To Govs Freshmen Drop Hard Fought Game To Southeast Missouri Saturday

Though the lead changed hands twelve times throughout the ball game, time ran out on the UTMB Vols and left them a 70-69 loss to the Governors of Austin Peay State at Clarksville Thursday night.

With the Vols holding a two to four point margin during most of the game, the scores became tighter at the mid-point of the second half. The two squads displayed phenomenal accuracy from the field during the final nine minutes swapping ten straight field goals, but the Govs took over the lead 67-65, 69-67, and then dropped a free throw to dispel a final UTMB two-pointer.

The loss evened the Vol's record at 9-9 and gave Austin Peay a 3-11 total, as well as revenge over an earlier 58-48 loss at Martin. UTMB now has four games remaining on the season list.

UTMB's freshmen team dropped their first game of the season Saturday night 72-71 to a quintet of Southeast Missouri State College freshmen and sophomores at Cape Girardeau, after dropping Bethel College's freshmen 87-53 at McKenzie Thursday.

With the SEMO encounter close throughout the game, the Indians took a one-point lead late in the game giving UTMB the ball under the Vol basket with less than half a minute remaining. Freshmen coach Jim Swope said the Orangemen tipped the ball over six times, but it just wouldn't fall through.

Forward Thoms Martin and guard Pat Taylor shared the UTMB spotlight with 17 points, while Robert Barger added 13.

Others in the scoring were Jim Phillips with nine, Dennie

O'Nan with eight, James Patterson totaling five, and Mike Kirkham with two.

Coach Swope was able to play all his men and thus the scoring was rather balanced. Guard Barger led with 19, Martin had 12, Kirkham took 10 to lead the pack. Others included Patterson and Graham with nine, O'Nan with seven, Taylor totaling six, Phillips with nine, Lee had four, and Gerion took two.

Thursday night, the freshmen added their fifth win to the record taking Bethel quite handily. The Vols jumped out to an early lead and swept out to take the victory.

Saturday night at 5:30 UTMB's freshmen team will meet the Western Kentucky Independents in a game preceding the varsity's encounter with Delta State College at the UTMB field house. The game will get underway at 5:30.

As It Looks From Here

BY DAVID DUNCAN

I'd like to take this space to commend Coach Jim Swope for the tremendous job he has done in building UTMB's first organized freshman team and in leading the newcomers to a 5-1 record thus far this season.

Coach Swope played for and graduated from UTMB two years ago before going to Memphis State to earn his master's degree. On returning as a physical education instructor and coach, he has given the Vol basketball program a great boost in keeping with the continual upsurge of all phases of local sports.

A good, well-organized freshman squad with a planned schedule is one facet of basketball that UTMB has lacked for some time. Now that the program has been introduced, it is even more encouraging to note the success of the new team this year:

Looking at the final scores of the freshmen games, the Vols have racked up a 20-point per game advantage over the opponents. Looking further, Coach Swope has among his courtsters four men who are averaging high in double figures, several good rebounders, and strong bench, which all therefore give him balance and depth.

The young team will be playing again Saturday night prior to the Delta State game at Martin. Action will begin at 5:30 and for a preview of the future 1966-67-68 UTMB Vols, everyone should want to attend.
